Committee Rally a Success

-submitted by Christine Ashworth

Committee and event leadership gathered September 13, 2014 for an organizing rally. We shared hopes, challenges, and excitement for the new church year. It is mind-blowing to hear about all of the amazing things going on in our community.

Several committees realized there would be power in collaboration. One result was a fun joint training on October 4, 2014 to cross train the Sunday morning teams of coffee, welcome, and ushering.

One key concern shared by all teams was encouraging enough folks to share their time. Each activity has its unique challenge; from needing a strong back to learning the trick of the vestibule doors. You will be enriched by sharing your time and energy at whatever level you are able. When you move out of your comfort zone and engage with the vision and passion our fellow congregants have for their respective areas, you will be inspired.

Service to my church is part of my spiritual practice. As with any spiritual practice, there are times when I am really not in the mood and/or too busy dealing with other aspects of my life. But, I keep working at it because service exposes me to people I have grown to love and respect, and my connections at church have more depth and substance.

Thank you to all of you who organize events, make coffee, bring wine and food, smile at newcomers, raise money, give money, care for the sick (people and the environment), nurture our youth, arrange flowers, lead, follow, scour the sink, make music, offer inspiring words, facilitate groups, and generally show up in spite of the challenges. We are all better people because of your efforts.

In service to our faith, Christine Ashworth

Chancel Choir to perform at Assembly Hall on Nov. 7th

Again, the Chancel Choir has a marvelous opportunity to extend an invitation to our congregation for a special Concert Event. The Reverend Patti Willis and Music Director Mary Lou Prince (from South Valley Unitarian) have collaborated in the composition of a cantata called, "Songs Of The Earth". This beautiful and lyric set of ten pieces with spoken word will be performed at the Assembly Hall on Temple Square on Friday, November 7th at 7:30 pm. A Festival Chorus comprised of our two Unitarian choirs as well as a large LDS Choir from Kaysville has been formed for this event. We of the Chancel Choir have delighted in having the opportunity to work on this and very much look forward to its presentation. If you have further questions, feel free to contact David Owens at 801-390-0488 .

Open Minds Book Group

The next meeting of the Open Minds Book Group will be at 7:00 on November 25th in the Haven room at the church. The book is "Under the Wide and Starry Sky" by Nancy Horan. All are welcome.

Singing Circle: International Folksongs

All voices welcome - from shy shower singers to confident vocalists! Come learn wonderful songs, interesting harmonies and have fun! Adults and young people 15 years and up. Individuals under the age of 18 must be accompanied by a participating adult. When: Each month on the fourth Thursday, from 7:00-8:30 PM. Contact: Stacey at voicecoachSLC@gmail.com.

Dinner and Dialogue

Make new UU friends while enjoying good food and stimulating conversation. Sign up at the Welcome Table to HOST a dinner in your home. You set the date and the menu, and decide how many guests you can accommodate. Guests sign up to ATTEND and contribute by bringing a dish to share. What could be simpler? Questions, please get in touch with Jan Crane, 801 870-1222 or suppers@slcuu.org.

UU Lunch Bunch

A family-friendly group for anyone and everyone who would like to get together for lunch and chat with like-minded people. Meet at the Restaurant on Sundays at 1:00 p.m. For more information contact Carol Shaughnessy at (801) 262-1151 or lunchbunch@slcuu.org.

Reverendly Yours

It's a fact: All people rich and poor feel the same emotions, pain, joy, love, hurt, sadness, hunger, thirst, and have needs for shelter, food, and desire opportunities for their children. They all have blood coursing through their veins and bleed when pricked. Rich and poor are made of the same molecules, organ parts, DNA, and rules of biology. They all find their beginnings in utero and enter life the same way. But after inhaling their first breath, rich and poor diverge into separate orbits. Life is experienced as radically different. As the gap between rich and poor widens in astonishing ways, the rich, isolated by their staggering opulence, often lose sight of the basic concept that we are inextricably tied to one another. One can pretend that the poor have no health care needs, and are somehow exempt from hunger and despair. One can ignore the fact that poor people have the same feelings as all humans do.

Janet Yellen, chairwoman of the Federal Reserve, lamented last week that rising economic inequality is bad for the economy. Imagine that! As income levels soar for the elite few, and the share of wealth decreases disproportionately for the rest of society, we cannot succeed economically as a nation with this kind of imbalance. Yellen painted a bleak picture of the increasingly unequal distribution of wealth and income, warning that Americans already have relatively little chance to advance economically. Her warning was met by Republican congressmen complaining about Yellen's partisanship and called for new legislative restraints.

Closer to home, First Unitarian Church in fulfilling its mission, has grown more economically diverse. We have families, who though employed, stand one emergency away from total financial collapse. Some have already crossed that threshold. I recently held a meeting with church leaders who unanimously agreed that we have an institutional responsibility to our members to avert dire consequences for families of little means following a crisis. We hope to be in a position to provide interest-free loans and in some cases outright grants to minimize the vulnerability experienced by some of our members.

We will dedicate our Sunday offering plate exclusively for this endeavor. If you missed church on October 26th, which precluded you from contributing, please take the opportunity now to write a check to First Unitarian Church marked "Emergency Fund." We do not see homelessness and hunger as partisan issues. There are moral responsibilities we carry as human beings, and if we are fortunate enough to have the means to help others, may we live up to our principles and make life's journey a little lighter for those who struggle. TRG

A reminder to those who have registered for the book discussion with Tom Goldsmith on Sam Harris' book "Waking Up."

We will meet on two successive Wednesdays: October 29th and November 5th. Both sessions will be held in the Haven from 7:30 – 9:00 p.m. And for those who are on the waiting list, we'll have another round of discussions sometime in the winter. Stay tuned.

Religious Education

Mary Kroener-Ekstrand

Dear All,

We've now officially settled into the rhythm of the church year. Sunday school classes are launched, Adult Religious Education classes have begun, and many monthly programs focused on social connections and/or personal development are meeting regularly. Have you found a niche within our congregation?

If you are looking for ways to get more connected, please stop by the Welcome Table on Sunday mornings to pick up our brochures and literature or just drop me a line and I'll be glad to help you find ways to nurture your own spiritual and intellectual journey within our church community.

In Service,
Mary

Annual Halloween Carnival, Tuesday October 28th

Come one, come all to the annual YRUU Halloween Festival on Tuesday, Oct 28th from 6:00 - 8:00pm here at First Church. Our high school youth group has planned a variety of activities for kids including a "Haunted Hallway", costume contest, carnival games, music, candy, prizes, and more. All ages are invited to attend and share in seasonal fun and games. Friends are very welcome, so please feel free to invite others who might enjoy a family-friendly social occasion. Eat dinner before you arrive – we will serve treats but not a meal!

All proceeds from this event go towards the YRUU Mission Trip fund. The suggested donation amount is $5 per person payable either on Sunday during the coffee hour or at the door. Thanks for your support!
